MILE

The Winner Will Compete Against Harvard or Yale.

Both Clubs Have Contended Against Each Other Six Different Times-Vast Crowds Will Attend and Line the Course

London, March 21.—When the winner of the Oxford-Cambridge race crosses the line at Mortlake tomorrow, it will be known which of the two is to compete against Harvard or Yale in the International race, which is to be rowed in June or July of this year on the other side of the Atlantic. The crows will appear in the following positions today:

start was made at High Bridge, Mortlake. Some interesting dates in connection with this race are as follows: In 1846 the race this race are as follows: In 1846 the race was first rowed on out-riggers. In 1857, the present style of boat, with keels, was first used, and both colleges rowed with round oars for the first time. In 1873 the sliding seats were introduced. The Oxford-Cambridge races date back to 1829, when Oxford won in 14 minutes 30 seconds over the Healey course of two miles and a quarter.

Oxford's victories number twenty-six and were made in 1829, 1842, 1849, 1852, 1854, 1857, 1859, 1860, 1851, 1862, 1833, 1834, 1865, 1863, 1867, 1858, 1833, 1833, 1875, 1878, 1880, 1881, 1882, 1885, 1890, 1891, 1882. Cambridge's victories number twenty-three. In 1877 a dead heat resulted from Oxford's bow damaging his oar and com-ing into the finish virtually a passenger. Oxford's victories bereathy. Oxford's vi tories have aimost always been decided ones. Last year's work beat all time records. But on two occasions Oxford won by ten lengths, on two other occasions by seven lengths, and on few occasions did Cambridge exceed six lengths. lengths. That record was made during the time of the "all invincibles" in 1888.
